Fort Bliss
Fort Bliss, Texas

The buildings on the historic Fort Bliss campus were constructed for the United States Army between 1900 and 1940. As part of its ongoing historic preservation program, the Army requested a series of studies be carried out for twenty-three selected properties. MacDonald & Mack performed interior and exterior paint color research as part of an historic structures report for three of the properties. We also conducted exterior paint color research for nineteen other structures on the site.

Services
HSR assistance
paint color research

Client
John Callan, Architect and TRC Environmental Corporation for the United States Army